

The JPL logo is rendered in a bold, white, sans-serif font. The letters are closely spaced and have a slightly futuristic, blocky appearance. The background of the entire graphic is a dark, star-filled space scene with a prominent nebula in the lower center.

June 28, 1985
Vol. 13, No. 24

UNIVERSE

Fly with AACIT

AACIT invites interested JPLers to "come fly with us".

The Aero Association of Caltech (AACIT) is a non-profit organization of JPL and campus employees providing aircraft and training to employees as well as to the general public.

The club fleet is based at the El Monte airport; it consists of two Cessna 150 trainers, a four-seat Piper Warrior, and a fast four-seat Cessna Cutlass RG.

Information about the club and arrangements for an introductory flight is available from David Rossing, Ext. 6492, or Steve Phillipson, Ext. 167-9281.

ERC coordinates

A variety of physical fitness opportunities are available for JPLers who want to stay in shape